Robert Parker: "Joliet is a 4 star producer. The wine from this vineyard can be extremely good in a rich, full bodied, meaty style and tends to age very well. It will usually last 10-12 years in a top vintage."

A MESSAGE FROM SHERWOOD DEUTSCH.....

Our 2003 Fixin "Clos de la Perriere Premier Cru" is a superb Burgundy at a fantastic low price. The grapes are grown in the commune of Fixin which is located in the famous region of Burgundy called the Cote d' Or, acclaimed to be the best region in the world for growing the pinot noir grapes.

If you like great French red Burgundies but thought you could not afford to buy them, then you should try this wine. Michael Misch and I will stake our reputations on the fact that this is undoubtedly one of the greatest Burgundy bargains you will ever come across.

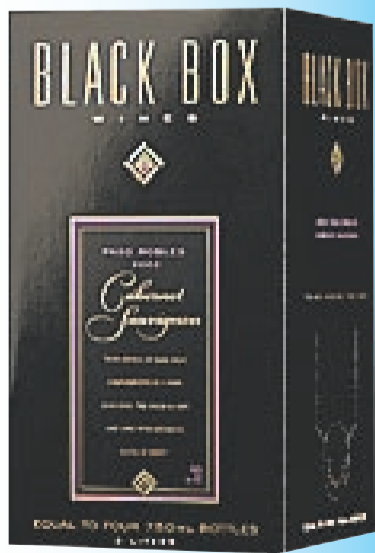

The Joliet family has owned this vineyard since 1853 and the current owner is Benigne Joliet who represents the sixth generation. Benigne told us that his goal is to bring his Premier Cru vineyard up to Grand Cru status. To achieve this goal he began introducing expensive new wine making techniques beginning with his 2003 vintage. Century has been buying Fixin from the Joliet family for about 20 years and their 2003 vintage wine is absolutely one of our favorites. Our price for the current 2003 vintage is a "steal" at $25.95 per bottle. This is your last chance to buy this wine at this low price. We are now offering the last of our 2003 inventory before the arrival of the 2005.

Immediately after uncorking, the wine gives off a great Pinot Noir fragrance and this very rich, luscious, full-bodied, smooth wine tastes like there is three pounds of crushed black cherries in every bottle. Although you can enjoy the wine now, you can cellar it for at least another 12 years or more. In several blind tastings, we have found this 2003 Fixin to be superior to Burgundies that cost more than 2 to 3 times the price.
